Budget Balance Unlikely, Hints Morgenthau

Refuses Speculation On U. S. Actions in 1939

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(U.S.)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today was not an enthusiastic over the prospect of a balanced federal budget in 1939 as President Roosevelt was earlier in the week in his Bonnevillie Dam speech.

He declined to predict the budget would be balanced by the end of the fiscal year, June 30, and refused to speculate on what he thought the government would do in 1939.

Roosevelt stated in his speech the budget would be balanced in 1939, but Morgenthau pressed for a statement on the question.

"I don't go in much for these hopes," he said.

Gordon Death Solution Near

MRS. GORDON

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Solution of the "barred murder" of Mrs. Gordon, widow of the late Senator, was today announced by the state police. The police stated that the murder was committed by Joseph Schreier, 24, according to police. Schreier, held without bail on a charge of violating the state fire arms law, was named by police as "a definite suspect" in the brutal slaying which occurred in Albany.

Mrs. Gordon's body was found stuffed in a barrel on the bank of the East River near Hell Gate Bridge last August 27. She had been stabbed 11 times with a ten-inch and shot through the head. Police believed she was murdered because she knew too much about the activities of a dope ring with which according to authorities she was connected. Her husband, Max "Doc" Gordon, had been associated.

The arrested man, through an attorney, denied any connection with the crime.

Neighbor Saves Woman, 75, From Fire

Rescued From Blazing Scituate Cottage, Which Is Razed

SCITUATE, Sept. 30.—A 75-year-old woman was rescued by a neighbor today as fire raged through her two-story waterfront cottage in the Miami section of the town.

The woman, Mrs. Frank Staples, was making her way downstairs when Luther Turner rushed into the blazing cottage and assisted her to the street.

Turner escorted her to his home in Bluffs road, where she remained while firemen battled vainly to save the house.

Two alarms from Scituate's "danger box" were sounded for the fire. With the Staples cottage wreathed in flames and smoke, the firemen centered their attention on adjoining cottages strung along the waterfront. None was damaged.

Authorities stated that Mrs. Staples, who celebrated her 75th birthday yesterday, had returned to bed early today after lighting the oil stove. She was roused by passing cars, who saw flames leaping from the house.

Probe 'Reds' Today, Klan Later

In the spotlight as today's legislative probe of "subversive agencies" began were these two central figures, Representative Philip Sherman, who sponsored the bill creating the investigating commission, and State Senator Sybil Holmes, the commission's chairman. Miss Holmes announced that probes would turn their attention soon to Ku Klux Klan activities in Massachusetts.

The Brighter Side

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1937, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

"Where are you headed?" you asked the onlooker fellow you met at the water tank at Idaho Falls that night in a long gone year.

Damon Runyon

"I don't climb so good no more," he said. "I'll take the blind."

As you were slipping between two cars to mount switch to the roof of one, you saw him making a hobbling dash for the "blind baggage" the baggage car without a sign at the end, and the "blind" "blind" that was hooked next to the engine.

SANDMAN DANCE

You felt sorry for him that he could not enjoy the comparative comfort and safety of the "blind" — safe, that is, except for the possibility of the sandman sneaking up on you as you lay face downward, and as fast as possible to offer the least wind resistance. The sandman might easily catch you in a drowsy death.

Safe enough, but the reputation of an unfriendly incident like that of the night on the deck of the Santa Fe, first outside Scraper, Kas., when the ape-like from the engine set the back of your coat afire and you could not reach the blaze with one free hand and did not dare try with both, for you did not mark of anything else, but try to remember your own death. That was the night you acquired a confidence in your life, for a man came down from heaven and put out the fire just as it reached through to your skin and you knew that it was but a question of minutes when you would have to get on all fours and run the risk of being burned to ash.

TRILLING ESCAPE

That was the place where, as the train came to a stop, a big, rough, tough, gruff man, riding smoothly along the canteen of the vermilion car, suddenly stopped and reached in between the engine and the "blind" and handed the onlooker man, who was wearing like a crippled rabbit being dragged from a hole.

You saw this as a slightly confused visual snapshot, because at the moment you were sliding down the "deck," and taking in your lungs to avoid another big, rough, tough, gruff man, who had appeared like a crude apparition out of the mist, and, looking the likes of you.

Powell! — It all came back to you after many years through a small news dispatch dated from three long days ago. You found, under the "blinds" on President Roosevelt's special train was arrested as the train stopped to change wheels at Des Moines.

The dispatch meant "blinds" of course, not "blinds," unless the word was singularly different. Or else, the thing has changed since your time. The chap did not say he was riding the President's train. They told him he was lucky he did not get shot.

HARD COP SAID HELLO

Nobody in town seemed to build it against you, because you came in on the "blinds" of a passenger train and defrauded the railroad company of its legal and just fare. The hard railroad cop came into the passenger one night for a cup of coffee, and you shivered in your shoes, thinking he might be after you, but all he said was "Hello, Kid."

Powell! — The news dispatch says that farm-lease train rides usually bring five-day sentences there, but a judge says that in a special case like this the least he can mete out is ten days.

You remember hearing that the onlooker man got twenty days but that was a long time ago, and it seems to you now that people were more liberal in everything then.

Royal Scot Weaves and Sedan Shetlands at two corking low prices!

THIS is our second bombshell of the season. Two weeks ago, we announced that Bond prices would not be raised this Fall. That started plenty of talk, and won us a host of new friends. Now we go even further—with a double-barrel blast that will get a tremendous hand from hundreds of men who need new clothes.

★ The suits in this twin Special are pippins! "Royal Scot" and "Sedan Shetland" are names that need no introduction to men who know their woollens. For years, they've been rated with the best from the world's finest looms. But it's a safe bet that you've seldom seen them for much less than $32.50! And the way our tailors have handled these rich weaves is distinctly in keeping with their high quality. ★ The Stonehaven Worsted will appeal particularly to the men who appreciate the niceties of Rochester needlework—and who don't want to pay a fortune for it. ★ Here you have 2 powerful examples of how much you profit by doing business with America's largest clothier. Make the most of them before selections melt away. No time like today or tomorrow!

Japan Defies U. S. Protest on China

TOKYO, Sept. 30 (INS)—Japanese planes will keep on bombing Nanking, China's capital, despite protests from the United States and other governments, Japan asserted flatly today in a formal reply to the note recently dispatched to Tokyo by American Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The American note protested against bombing of open Chinese towns and the killing of non-combatants as "contrary to humanity." Japan replied that aerial attacks against Nanking are "unavoidable." The Japanese reply, framed by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, was received at 11:45 a. m. in Tokyo.

His main points were as follows:

It is unavoidable that Japan's forces bomb strong Chinese defenses, including Nanking, creating loss of Chinese military operations.

Japanese military operations are not indiscriminately directed against both combatants and non-combatants.

Japan remains "reluctant" regarding the rights of third parties in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

The United States is requested to "co-operate" with Japan in transporting American nationals to safe refuge in order to avoid "misfortune."

As regards damages resulting from the conflict, Japanese intentions remain the same as previously stated.

The Japanese "big push" against the Chinese defense lines northwest of Shanghai, was fought to a standstill. Japanese hurried every man and machine to the front. The Chinese, however, were able to repulse the attack. At midday, after more than 24 hours of desperate fighting, a Japanese spokesman admitted only minor gains had been made.

The Chinese Japanese news agency reported from Nanking that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek was giving the Chinese resistance by telephone from his Shanghai headquarters.

The American army transport Chautauque arrived today from Shanghai and will sail tomorrow for Hongkong.

The Chautauque took on one hundred additional refugees from Shanghai and will sail tomorrow for Hongkong.

200,000 Chinese Reds Ordered to Front

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30 (AP)—Two hundred thousands more Chinese Communists were ordered to the North China front today to stem the advance of the Japanese army as Chinese outside Shanghai continued to build their positions and showed signs of weakening.

Communist forces in Kiangsu province were mustered to reinforce troops, their old enemies as the Japanese advanced through eastern Hupeh almost to the border of Shantung province, which has felt only intermittent attacks from armies from the Land of the Rising Sun.

Japanese sources declared yesterday that Marshalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, commander-in-chief of Soviet Russia's Sienchi forces, was advising the Chinese army.

Japan's Curt Reply

"Unsatisfactory" to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (INS)—Japan's curtly worded reply to the American protest over air raids on China's civilian centers and non-combatant areas was considered "highly unsatisfactory" in administration quarters here today.

Officially, Secretary of State Hull and his advisers withheld comment, but there were private expressions of dissatisfaction over the Japanese attitude.

A third note of protest of even stronger tenor was predicted if the air raids continue, as Japan's reply indicated they will.

Chinese News Agency Says Japs Sank Junks

HONGKONG, Sept. 30 (AP)—A dramatic dispatch from the Chinese news agency at Shanghai reported today that Japanese junks at Swatow were sunk by the Central Chinese Navy.

Two Japanese fishermen, according to the agency, were killed and three others injured in the sinking.

The Chinese fishermen were said to be in the vicinity of the junks when they were sunk.

Reds to Send 100 Planes To Aid China, Report

LONDON, Sept. 30 (INS)—A report from the Soviet news agency Tass today said that the Soviet Union is planning to send 100 planes to aid China.

The planes are to be sent to the North China front to aid the Chinese army.

Television To Start Soon Sports Events to Be Put on the Air

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—A tentative plan for a non-commercial program of television broadcasts to begin in the near future was announced today by William J. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Paley said the television broadcasts would be of the type that would be of interest to the general public.

He said the development of television would be much more than that of sound broadcasting, because of the many technical obstacles.

Italy Hails Duce As Conqueror

ROME, Sept. 30 (AP)—Premier Mussolini returned triumphantly to Italy today from Germany where he had signed the final peace treaty.

Despite the early hour of his arrival in Rome, 30 miles south of Italy's Austrian frontier, thousands along the route shouted "Duce! Duce!"

League Decides To Confront Mussolini

Resolution Demands He Withdraw All Spanish Troops

GENEVA, Sept. 30 (AP)—A League of Nations subcommittee was understood today to have reached a fateful decision to present Premier Mussolini with the ultimatum of withdrawing his Italian volunteers from the Spanish civil war.

The draft of the resolution, according to an unofficial summary, points out the "duty of every state to respect the territorial integrity and political independence of other states."

It affirms that "every state is under obligation to refrain from intervening in the internal affairs of another state."

It recalls that "special undertakings" have been entered into "for the purpose of limiting the Spanish conflict and thereby safeguarding the general peace."

It states that the non-intervention committee "not only has failed to secure the withdrawal of non-Spanish combatants taking part in the struggle in Spain, but that there now must be recognized the existence of a very real foreign army, which represents foreign intervention in Spain."

It demands that "the committee should be empowered to enforce the complete withdrawal of non-Spanish combatants taking part in the struggle in Spain."

Church Body Hits at Reds Bishop Told None Can Become Members

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30 (AP)—The Church League of Industrial Democracy and Bishop William T. Manning of New York was renewed today as a member of the Church League of Industrial Democracy.

"Any statement which attempts to identify the C.I.D. philosophy with that of organized Communism simply displays either an obvious ignorance of what a Communist is, or a deliberate attempt to mislead the public as to the nature of the C.I.D. organization," Matthews said.

The draft of the resolution, according to an unofficial summary, points out the "duty of every state to respect the territorial integrity and political independence of other states."

British Cheer Endeavour

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—The staunchest cheerer who sailed the Endeavour 1 home across the Atlantic were given a welcome today that has been more enthusiastic if they had the American Cup aboard.

Cheers sounded along the coast of southern England as the yacht from New York sailed into the harbor.

Boilers first sighted the yacht off Lowest Point at 4:40 a. m. and flashed the word along the coast.

Boatmen and friends of the crew, officials and many others waited at the harbor port to give the yacht a warm welcome.

The official reason for the ban was said to be that the activities of the institution might interfere with the existing Nazi regulations governing the church.

French Defense Fund Rockets

PARIS, Sept. 30 (AP)—Finance Minister Georges Bonnet proposed today a sharp increase in French defense expenditures in presenting the 1938 ordinary budget bill to Parliament.

The budget draft showed total national defense expenditures for 1938 would be 22,875,000,000 francs, compared with 19,125,000,000 francs for 1937.

The weight of military credits is such for all countries in Europe that under pain of a general financial catastrophe it will be necessary to move in the direction of limitation of armaments.

Bonnet said in the bill.

Nazi Tighten Ban On Church Schools

BERLIN, Sept. 30 (AP)—Herr Hitler, chief of the German government, tightened the restrictions on the Protestant Church in Germany today with a decree closing all parties, clubs, societies or the equivalent educational facilities set up by the opposition at Protestant movement to train their own ministers.

The official reason for the ban was said to be that the activities of the institution might interfere with the existing Nazi regulations governing the church.

Prices on Food Expected to Turn Down

Shift in Trend Seen by U. S. Bureau Early In 1938

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (INS)—The family food bill, which has reached a record high for the recovery period, may be expected to start a downward trend soon, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted today.

The chief reason is that farmers are receiving the lowest prices for commodities that they have received in the last four months.

Animals and fruits still are bringing farmers record prices, but all that is expected to be changed, particularly with meats, by the first of the year.

High prices already have declined about 40 cents a hundred pounds since August 15. Cattle prices, which reached a new record high in Chicago yesterday, for prime steers, are expected to go down sharply by January 1.

By the first of the year, there will be an ample supply of good feed for the market.

Valuable Dog Flees Vessel

Airedale Chased, But Escapes Pursuers

So far as a valuable airedale was concerned today, it was fortunate for him when the German Patrol Boat Ekoratia reached the Army Base here.

Hardly had the gangplank been hoisted up when the airedale, being shipped to Julia Faust at Bedford House, Calicut, N. Y., slipped out of confinement aboard the ship, landed down the gangplank, leaped it along the Army Base and was away.

Part of the crew and a goodly number of stevedores, truck drivers and others pursued the dog, but he kept going, eluding the water at the gate and was last seen headed for South Boston.

Wilkins to Return to Arctic Search

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30 (AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, eager to start again on another Polar search for the missing Russian aviators, today said he might have to obtain a considerable amount of private pilot, as attempts to buy one from a factory were fruitless.

"Time is essential," said Sir Hubert. "For Russians had only six weeks' food supply when they left Moscow last month."

Cummings Hits U.S. Anti-Crime Morale

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30 (INS)—The American people have been "wasting" tax in establishing standards for their crime-fighting action, Attorney General Homer Cummings told the International Association for Identification today.

Cummings urged the substitution of money for "new" methods and the "game" in the detection and apprehension of criminals.

Nova Scotia Farmer to Hang

Donald Fleet's Wife Granted Custody of 2

Ex-B. C. Runner Gets Children Sunday Afternoons

SALEM, Sept. 29.—After he had attempted vainly to reconcile the couple, Judge Edward B. O'Brien, to probate court today awarded custody of their two children to Mrs. Muriel E. Fleet of Gloucester.

The husband, Donald A. of Wareham, after divorcing former Boston College trackman, had brought a petition for custody but said frankly in court that he was there only because he had been refused permission to see them.

"It is very evident that this woman is a mile ahead of her husband," said Judge O'Brien after his vain attempt at reconciliation.

The couple were married in December, 1935, but kept it secret. Fleet said because he was still a college student. They set up house-keeping only last March but separated in July.

On the witness stand the pretty, brunette wife testified mother-in-law trouble was the undoing of the marriage.

"She had him for dinner every night and she took him out riding every Sunday, while I sat at home," said the younger Mrs. Fleet.

"I don't care, and never did care for her—any more than she cared for me."

When the wife testified in Fleet's absence, Judge O'Brien remarked: "If my wife wanted me to go to Boston, I wouldn't go. I wouldn't have my wife or anyone else put me around to beat. This isn't anything against a husband."

Mrs. Fleet was given custody of the children, Donald P. three, and David A. two, except during July and August of each year. Fleet may see the children on alternate times and may have them from 2 to 5 p. m. on Saturdays but pay $4 a week toward their support.

This was before police had discovered Eleanor's identity and after they had found her wandering lost in Sullivan square. But cops are really kind-hearted fellows, so they made the lot comfortable with a downy pillow and a blanket-mattress. "Flossie" (she would like it that way) just stood by.

The court instructed Mrs. Stuckey to get a letter from the welfare department in that effect and return.

Parole System Shakeup Plan Of Robart

Other States Studied; Urges Life Terms In Sex Cases

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Reorganization of the entire Massachusetts system of parole is one of the major reforms that will be urged by Major Ralph W. Robart, chairman of the state commission on pardons and paroles, at the annual meeting of the American Association of State Parole Boards, today.

He stated that members of the state board are engaged in a survey of the parole systems of every state in the union and are giving special attention to the California, Illinois and New York systems as having the "model organizations."

He said:

RECOMMEND PLAN

"From the completion of this survey and for the purposes of developing an ideal parole system in Massachusetts we intend to recommend a plan that comprises all the best features of the other systems."

The results of the survey we plan to submit to Governor Hurley as expeditiously as possible.

With special reference to sex criminals, Major Robart said:

"The board has not-and has been since we took over the reins-unanimous in the opinion that a sex criminal should never be released from the institution should be for life."

"Following this procedure and there need be no discussion as to parole authority - there would be no need of it."

"Long before the public became aroused by the present state of crime, hundreds of sex criminals had been consistently refused release into the community."

"Furthermore, the board has held to this policy notwithstanding frequent earnest pleas on the part of Mr. Lyman's department, represented by his institution heads, to let these men out."

"Each violation of parole is treated separately after the manner of a new crime and if a man is arrested for a new crime and if his parole is made, we immediately revoke his parole to prevent him getting bail."

His estate of the composer, Theodore August Mead, was listed at $125,000, but the department of probate estimated a net worth of $200,000, which was said to have been given Mead for relief.

First Request After Release in Court

State Now Lags In Handling Paroles

More Supervisors Are Needed at Once, Says Expert

By HAROLD A. WOLFF

While Massachusetts was the leader in introducing the use of parole in this country, in recent years this commonwealth has fallen far behind in the handling of criminals released on parole.

It has already been pointed out that many of those released on parole are incurable criminals who should be kept in confinement for the remainder of their lives.

As a result of the recent wave of sex crime, there seems to be general agreement among the authorities that steps must be taken in the Boston Sunday Advertiser next Sunday.

But even among those officers who are deemed proper subjects for parole treatment, there are still many changes which must be made before this system of handling criminals will be efficient.

As Commissioner Lyman has pointed out in a recent report, "the great weakness in the parole system in Massachusetts and, therefore, the great weakness in adequately protecting the public, is the lack of sufficient parole officers to properly supervise the parolees."

There were in Massachusetts in 1935 over 200 criminals on parole, and these were supervised by 10 parole officers. Although the number of convicts on parole has diminished in the last five years, there has been an increase in the percentage of parole officers.

As a result of the inadequate staff of parole officers, each of the male parolees must have a supervisor assigned by any official. In fact, in the state of New York and New Jersey the same kind of parole officers is limited to between 30 and 35 cases per agent.

If the present trend continues, then the future will be more and more a mass of parolees walking out streets without any appropriate supervision in those men who are supposed to supervise them. This can only mean continued increase in crime, which in turn cannot fail to lead to a greater number of criminals committed by men on parole.

URGES NEW LAWS

In the light of this situation it is obviously desirable that laws should be passed in this state of New York and New Jersey which would increase the original number of parole officers immediately and would provide for a further proportionate increase of these parole officers as prisoners are conditionally sent out under their supervision. This will make it possible for each officer to do the job he has to do with sufficient frequency to provide some assurance that a man released on parole will not revert immediately to a career of crime.

It is a general rule that a parole officer must be kept sufficiently high as that only those suitably trained are taken into the service. An effective parole system can be administered only by highly skilled and experienced workers who will bring into their work all possible interest and devotion, making this work not merely a means of income, but a true career.

The obvious objection to the above suggestions is that they will further increase the already mounting cost of crime in this state. However, it appears to be a false sentiment.

SAVING TO TAXPAYERS

In 1935 the expenditures of the Department of Correction of Massachusetts reached the staggering total of over $2,000,000, which is the highest point it has ever attained in the history of the Commonwealth. This represents an average expenditure of over $40 for each inmate of our state institutions.

It is apparent that instead of increasing the cost of crime in this state, an efficient parole system would be the most effective way of relieving the taxpayers of a large part of this burden.

Parole officers receive an average of $14 for each man on parole. Even if the number of parole officers were doubled, the state would still save almost $600 for each man released on parole. This would result in an annual saving of dollars to the taxpayers and at the same time the amount of crime in the state.

Sixth of this vital series, analyzing prison and criminal problems and conditions in this state, will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. Follow this series through to next Sunday's concluding installment in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

First Poll Figures to Be Announced In Sunday Advertiser; Curley Leads

By FRANK K. REILLY

First returns in the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser mayoralty straw vote poll will be announced on Sunday.

All returns received by these newspapers prior to noon on Saturday will be published at that time. The fourth week of the poll will have ended then.

It was the original intention of the editors of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser to begin publication of returns at the end of the second week of the balloting. Some of the more prominent candidates made a poor showing in the early balloting, however, that in fairness to them publication of the figures was deferred.

NO FURTHER DELAY

There will be no further postponement. The editors of these newspapers believe that they have been most fair to all 30 men whose names are now on the ballot.

This poll has been conducted without bias and solely for the purpose of enabling the readers of these newspapers to determine the vote getting power of those who seek election as successor to Mayor Mansfield.

Former Governor James M. Curley retained his lead in today's balloting. He has been in that position for three weeks.

The seven runners-up are School Committee Maurice J. Tobin, President John I. Fitzgerald of the Boston City Council, Carlton L. Brett of Dorchester, the Social Justice candidate, former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, former State Auditor Alton B. Cook, Charles L. Mower, Back Bay Republican, and Otto Archer Hood, the Communist candidate.

Sylvia Van Ness Plans Debut At Studio Tea Dance
By BETTY ALDEN

THE SOPHISTICATED New Yorkers are convinced that all the Boston debutante affairs are luncheons and tea dances, conducted under the loving eye of a formidable group of sponsor chaperones. They are not, however, for the debutante who is not a social lioness, but a girl in low heeled shoes and middy blouse who is first in ginger bread, apple sauce and cranberry tea, and then in the social life of the city.

Sylvia Van Ness, who is to debut at the Harvard Studio Tea Dance on Saturday afternoon, October 1, is a girl who is not a social lioness, but a girl in low heeled shoes and middy blouse who is first in ginger bread, apple sauce and cranberry tea, and then in the social life of the city.

Following a long and hard day of work, she is to be seen at the Harvard Studio Tea Dance on Saturday afternoon, October 1, at 4 o'clock. She is a girl who is not a social lioness, but a girl in low heeled shoes and middy blouse who is first in ginger bread, apple sauce and cranberry tea, and then in the social life of the city.

Married Comrades Brixton Is Alarmed By Madge

By ADELE GARRISON
CHAPTER 43
I HAD accomplished one satisfactory objective at least, I told myself, as I watched Samuel Brixton's instantaneous reaction to my comment that I was so worried about Ronald.

He seemed from the start in a state of mind that was not at all what I needed. When he spoke, it was in a way that was not at all what I needed. He seemed from the start in a state of mind that was not at all what I needed.

Mary, when the daughter and the "victim" are as all about her mother's unusual demand in this interesting letter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30 (AP)—The New York stock list was at its best in the first today with gold mining issues, steel, coppers and rails and other big buyers. The big gains running to around 2 points or more. Mild selling appeared later and extreme gains were reduced here and there. The market was exceptionally quiet.

Helpful was an update to rail bonds and securities. The principal commodities were a trifle uneven.

Gold, silver, tin, copper, zinc, lead, nickel, as Dime, McIntire, Humphreys and Algonquin, and the rest of the yellow metal price moved up in the afternoon. The price of gold was reported to have advanced was reported to have increased.

"If war should be desired, however, that every important country has its armaments."

"I will prefer major nations to sell their major financial for war. This is an important consideration."

This financier one of the most important in the world. He said that he and others have been particularly perturbed over their own political situation. He said that the likelihood of any widespread war is very small. He said that of Europe. He cannot overstate the likelihood of any widespread war.

trixite activity in rail schedules were encountered by local shipyards were countered by the National Labor and General Maritime Union and Brotherhood of rail representatives and Brotherhood of Marine and Boatmen. Chicago encouraged renewed support for the strike. The controversy is now well settled. The strike ended yesterday were down 50 per cent from the previous year. In the preceding year, which was the worst in the industry's history.

The majority of the motors had been sold at a loss. The management of price boosts on new motors was a factor in the strike.
